

The instructions that are within the Fall 2019 Economics 104 final exam

This is the actual final online exam for Economics 104, Fall 2019.

If you are a student with disabilities and have been granted extra time to take this test, this is not your exam. Exit this exam and find your appropriate exam. That exam will be linked as a 1.5X or 2.0X exam.

This exam is worth 200 points.

This is a closed-book exam. Although you are allowed to use a laptop to take this exam, you are not allowed to access your notes or other class material.

You will have 40 minutes to complete this test once it starts. It will start when you see the first question. A timer will appear. The timer is not running now.

You are allowed to use a calculator, including your laptop calculator or your phone calculator, when taking this exam. You can also listen to music with headphones when taking this exam.

This exam must be taken with a computer. DO NOT USE CINE as your wireless choice. Do not attempt to take this exam with a smartphone.

This exam consists of T/F questions worth 2 points each, multiple choice questions with single answers worth 4 points or 5 points each, and multiple choice questions with multiple possible answers worth 5 or 6 points each, short matching questions worth 4 to 12 points, and a matching section worth 50 points.

DO NOT START THIS EXAM UNLESS YOU HAVE ACCESS TO AN EXTERNAL SHEET LABELED Terms for Economics 104 Final Exam - Matching Question Answers. That is for the matching section, which is at the end of this exam.

Some exam questions within are presented randomly to each of you, as are the answers within the multiple choice questions.

You can only take this exam once. You must provide your first and last name and email address to take this exam.

This exam will require a password, provided at exam time.

Although you can log into this exam under a fake name it is a serious violation of the HMC Honor Code to do that and will result in stricter security measures taken for the exam. Don't do that to your fellow students.

One question will appear per page.

You are allowed to go back and change answers.

Once you submit your answers and leave the exam, you cannot return to the exam.

You will be immediately informed of your score, and you will be told which questions you missed and will be told the correct answers for those questions. PLEASE TRY TO REMEMBER YOUR NUMERIC SCORE. Jot it down.

If there is a glitch in this technology please don't panic. Prof Evans will work with the class to make this a positive experience.

If you are certain that a question has been graded improperly, don't tell Prof Evans right away. He will see that in the results of all exams and will make an adjustment to the score.

Exams scores will be adjusted upward to where the highest score submitted becomes 100%. If for example the highest score from any students is 96%, all exams will be given 4 extra points. Any such adjustment will be explained in the lecture after the exams are posted and the distribution is presented to the class.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE MATCHING PART OF THE EXAM (the final part of the exam):

To find the answers to these matching questions, refer to the sheet provided outside this online exam labeled as "Terms for Economics 104 Final Exam - Matching Question Answers" (or some very similar label). This was likely provided in the classroom where you took the exam and is also linked from the website where you found this exam.

To answer the matching portion of this test, read the question and then select the number of the correct answer. Type that and only that into the answer box. Do not type the term itself! That will be scored as wrong! By example, if the correct answer from the term sheet is type 28 into the answer box. If you type ETN into the answer box, the question will be scored as incorrect.

Proceed when you are ready, and good luck.
